

FIGURE 14

Interrelationships between Enhancing Diversity in Training and the Workforce and Reducing Cancer Health Disparities

Increasing diversity such that the training pipeline and the biomedical workforce are more representative both of our increasingly diverse nation and the populations enduring the unequal burden of cancer will, in turn, ensure that progress in cancer research will reach all populations.

